EXPERIENCE

Mr. Eloy Saldivar is the Director of Business and Workforce Management for SRNL. In this role, he has overall leadership responsibility for all SRNL budget development, tracking and reporting, facility support services, human capital management and technology transfer. He is also responsible for Project Controls associated with SRNL activities.

Mr. Saldivar has 33 years of nuclear/non-nuclear experience at the Savannah River Site (SRS) and DuPont Petrochemicals working in the areas of Design Authority Engineering, Project Management, Program Management, Configuration Management, Risk Management, Maintenance, Training, Procurement, Program Planning, and Regulatory/Environmental Programs. He has worked in the Du Pont Victoria, Texas Plant (Petrochemicals Intermediates) and at SRS in Reactors, Reactor Materials, Central Services Works Engineering, Environmental, Nuclear Non-Proliferation Programs, Site Services, and High Level Waste Programs. Mr. Saldivar has demonstrated expertise in Design Authority engineering activities in support of High Level Waste Tank Farm Waste Removal and Salt Processing Projects. He has managed multiple engineering disciplines and worked directly with project management processes and principles. Mr. Saldivar was the SRS Principle Investigator for Waste Removal/Tank Closure technologies and deployments working as a liaison with all Department of Energy Complex sites involved with Waste Removal and Tank Closure missions. His most significant accomplishment to date is the successful engineering and regulatory management of the first two high level waste tank closures in the DOE Complex. He has been a certified Project Management Professional since 2007 and is heavily involved with the local Project Management Institute Chapter, including recent presidency.
