POSITION

Roland Mignone leads a team of business professionals who support Savannah River National Laboratory (SRNL) in executing the laboratory's mission to protect the nation. He is focused on enabling the workforce to execute and evolve business practices in the areas of Finance, Project Controls, Contracts / Agreements, Technology Transfer / Intellectual Property, and Procurement to support SRNL in achieving that mission.

EXPERIENCE

Roland possesses more than 36 years of experience in government and the private sector. He served 26 years in federal and local law enforcement, ultimately rising to the senior executive service in the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). Career highlights include managing and leading a broad range of investigative and intelligence operations, building and leading the Joint Terrorism Task Force in Salt Lake City to protect the 2002 Winter Olympic Games, and serving as the Deputy Assistant Director for the FBI's Weapons of Mass Destruction Directorate. Following his federal career, he spent nearly 10 years in federal contracting where he worked for Booz Allen Hamilton and PricewaterhouseCoopers to serve the consulting needs of federal customers. His contracting career included execution of the full spectrum business cycle from opportunity pursuit to delivery. His sustained focus was on providing the right solution, of the highest quality to his federal clients to help them achieve their mission objectives.

He is a seasoned leader who has demonstrated the ability to build consensus, solve complex problems, and achieve strategic outcomes. Roland joined SRNL during 2018 and has since helped shape SRNL's exciting journey into the future.
